The Work-Week Issue
Once the Utopian dream of labor organizers, the four-day, 40-hour work week has become something to be reckoned with. Experiment in the idea has been initiated by numerous small corporations across the country. Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers are planning a test, and the Civil Service Commission in Washington is giving it serious study.

In most organizations where the shorter, 40-hour week has been tried, less absenteeism and happier workers are reported. Bigger profits are anticipated.

Variations of the theme are also in vogue. One private laboratory has a work program of two weeks on the job, one week off. Lab workers put in two full weeks (seven days, 120 hours) and then take a week off. They seem to like it, especially the full week's time in which they are free to do what they wish.

The four-day work week is by no means a new idea. It has been around a long time. But in a country that until recent years has been work oriented, it has never really been given a test. If the CSC should accept it, it probably would not be long before it becomes general practice.

Assuming that the wheels of commerce can be kept efficiently running on four days of work a week, the policy has its encouraging points. But it will take more testing to prove the validity of this assumption. In any event, it is getting an open-minded tryout in a growing number of areas and endeavors and may ultimately become universal policy. If it does, the big question will be, what people are going to do with all their free time. The traditional theory that to much idleness breeds trouble will then meet the big showdown. —Tulsa (Okla.) Readable As Well As Drivable Tires

New federal regulations on automobile tires are designed to tell the buyer a lot of things about the equipment he purchases. The tire, for example, must bear the name of the manufacturer, brand name, size designations (including new and old), maximum load and inflation specifications, number of sidewall plies, a 10-digit code indicating where and when the tire was made, and some other things.

Wow! All of this on each tire? Not only that, but the St. Louis Post-Dispatch makes this editorial observation: "We would only note that from now on it will be insufficient for motorists to kick a tire. They will have to read it." —Wichita Falls (Tex.) Times

Hot Weather to Continue in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A continuation of hot temperatures is forecast for Arkansas over the weekend and into the first part of next week.

A gradual inflow of relatively dry and very hot air from the west is responsible for highs predicted to be in the upper 90s. This hot flow also will discourage the usual afternoon type of thundershowers, with very few clouds over the state.

Thursday's heat represented some of the highest Arkansas temperatures of the season. Pine Bluff hit the 100-degree mark and Texarkana had 102 for a high. Fayetteville was the coolest in the state with 91 degrees.

Even into early next week there is no sign of any front or trough of low pressure moving into Arkansas to provide a break in the hot weather.

Overnight lows around the state include Fayetteville 66, Harrison 72, Jonesboro 76, Pine Bluff 74, Texarkana 74, El Dorado 74, Memphis 71, Little Rock 73, and Fort Smith 68.

There was no rainfall reported for the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m.

Senate Votes Proposed Improvements for City Announced in Planning Report

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart a Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an end-the-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important is an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House.

Now Members of Both Sexes Try to Look as Much Alike as Possible

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you still having trouble telling the sexes apart?

You are? Well, little wonder. Instead of taking pride in looking different, the members of both sexes seem to be more and more determined to look as much alike as possible.

However, this mutual neutralization hasn't gone so far as yet that in most cases a determined bystander can't still figure out the sex of an individual. The question is why he would want to take the bother.

Here, for example, are a few remaining ways to tell the hirs from the hers.

If it will still bend over to pick up a dropped penny, it is a middle-age male. If it won't stretch its tight girdle to retrieve anything less than a dime, it's a middle-age female.

If it is always accused of never listening, that's Papa. If it is always accused of never stopping talking, that's Mama.

Put a dinner check on the restaurant table. Does it make little shrill cries of alarm and

A study titled "Capital Improvements Program, Comprehensive Planning Study, Hope Arkansas" has been prepared by Urban Planning & Development Corporation and Manes & Associates, Inc. in connection with the Hope Planning Commission.

According to the abstract, "This report presents an analysis of existing revenues and makes revenue projects. The report establishes a system of priorities for accomplishing plan recommendations and proposes methods of financing the various projects."

The report lists 28 "current and projected needs for capital improvements". The first need listed is that of two branch fire stations located in the vicinity of Greenwood and N. Hazel and in the vicinity of 16th and S. Main, to be built by 1990.

The report also calls for a city jail and police building to be constructed between 1981 and 1985, and a new youth center to be erected with federal assistance prior to 1975.

It is recommended that the city initiate steps to develop a site in the vicinity of Pritchard and Avenue E for a neighborhood park that is currently needed. The report also anticipates the future need of two more neighborhood parks, located in the vicinity of 16th and Hervey Sts. and another south and east of the high school.

Improvements were also recommended for the water system, sanitary sewer system,

State Prison Gets Grant of $1.6 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Plans for improvements to Arkansas prisons got a boost Thursday with approval of a grant of $1,630,000 by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Washington, D.C.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Gov. Dale Bumpers jointly announced the grant, which included almost $1.4 million for Arkansas prison work and the rest for other law enforcement endeavors.

The governor said he contacted McClellan about the possibility of approval of the grant about two weeks ago, but the amount approved exceeded his expectations.

The amount allotted for the prisons was $1,397,000 with the two largest chunks — $500,000 each — earmarked for development of a new women's reformatory and a new minimum security unit at Cummins Prison Farm.

The grant was made under a measure, processed by a McClellan committee, that President Nixon signed into law on Jan. 2. The condition of Arkansas prisons prompted him to include a prison aid program in the legislation, the senator said.

The other amounts and the categories in which they were provided were:

—$60,000, for correctional management system.
—$2,000 for renovation of the Cummins unit.

—$35,000 for construction of classrooms at Cummins.

—$210,000 for a correctional program plan and development.

The other $233,000 was for general law enforcement purposes in the state. It will be disbursed under the state Crime Commission.

State Has 8-10 Million Surplus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state government will finish the fiscal year ending June 30 with a surplus of $8 million to $10 million, Dr. Max Milam said Thursday.

Milam, director of the Administration Department, said the money will be used to finance construction projects, particularly at state colleges and universities.

The fund balances expected to be on hand at June 30 result from the fact that some agencies did not spend all the money that had been appropriated for them during the fiscal year.

Milam said this case about chiefly because of the freeze Gov. Dale Bumpers placed on hiring and purchasing by state agencies.

Medina Loses Ruling Will Be on Who Decides News: A Judge, Editor or Government

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A military judge refused today to dismiss the assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence," said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the overall policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

Bailey's complex motions charge that all of the officers involved in the investigation and charging of Medina were influenced by pressures improperly applied by the Department of the Army. Such pressure is known as command influence in the military. He argued that charges against Medina should be dismissed because of such influence.

Bailey has argued that before Medina was even formally investigated, the Army decided he must be tried regardless of what the evidence might show.

Bailey charged that Army bias against Medina became clearly evident in two developments. The developments, Bailey said, were the Army's decision not to allow Medina to testify for the government at the trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. and rejection of defense evidence during an Army investigation of the case.

Anniversary of Start of Korean War

SEOUL (AP) — Twenty-one years ago today North Korea invaded South Korea and started the Korean War. Occasional clashes still interrupt the uneasy peace along the 151-mile frontier between the two nations.

A 600,000-man South Korean force equipped with U.S. jet fighter-bombers, missiles, tanks and artillery stands guard along and below the demilitarized zone set by the 1953 armistice.

U.S. soldiers protected 18 miles of the DMZ front until March, when they were pulled back prior to the reduction of U.S. forces in South Korea from 62,000 to 42,000 by July 1.

Across the buffer zone are 466,000 North Korean troops armed with Soviet military equipment, including MIG21 jet fighters, heavy artillery and missiles.

South Korean officials claim that North Korea has violated the armistice agreement by building in its half of the buffer zone some 200 concrete bunkers and other fortifications armed with automatic weapons. But North Korea's refusal to cooperate has stymied the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission and the joint observer teams of the two opposing sides, the agencies created to help enforce the armistice.

When the North Korean army crossed the 38th parallel at dawn on June 25, 1950, it had 10 combat divisions armed with 500 Soviet tanks and 2,000 artillery pieces. South Korea was defended by 100,000 ill-trained men armed with rifles and light machine guns supplied by the United States.

Seoul fell to the invaders in three days and a large part of South Korea was occupied within a month. The United States rushed to South Korea's defense and rallied a 16-nation force under the banner of the United Nations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over the Pentagon war study, now in the Supreme Court, is a fight over who decides what the people read in newspapers: a government official, an editor or a judge.

The Justice Department, expressing concern for the nation's security, wants to protect its authority to mark documents "top secret" and keep them in the files until officials decide the reason for secrecy has passed.

The New York Times, The Washington Post and the Washington Star have filed suits to prevent the government from using its authority to demand that the papers remove or redact material from their files.

Court Test Between CBS, Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edging toward a court test of what a broadcaster can deny Congress, House probes indicate they will press contempt charges against an unbending network chief, president Frank Stanton of CBS.

Climaxing a four-hour confrontation Thursday, Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the Commerce Committee and its investigating panel, ordered Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, "to comply with the committee subpoena."

Repeating what he had said every time he was asked to supply such subpoenaed material as film or sound recordings not used in the televised documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon," Stanton replied: "I respectfully decline."

"We must have those outtakes," Staggers demanded, hammering his desk as he accused CBS of distortion through electronic manipulation and mismatching of questions and answers. The issue is not First Amendment press freedom, he said, it is whether the network tried to practice deception or fraud through its editing.

When Staggers asked whether Stanton realized he could be found in contempt, the network executive twice responded, "yes, I do."

Ordered to supply the material, Stanton said, "I respectfully decline." Staggers told him: "In my opinion, you are now in contempt."

Later, apparently ready to press for a recommendation to the full Commerce Committee, Staggers told reporters the subcommittee's decision may be made next week. If the committee goes along, it would be up to the House whether to send the case to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Districting Board Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Thursday he would call a meeting of the state Board of Apportionment for Monday and final legislative redistricting plans might be adopted then.

The board is composed of Bumpers, Atty. Gen. Ray H. Thornton Jr. and Secretary of State Kelly Bryant.

Bumpers said he thinks the board can reach agreement on final plans Monday, but he said he was not certain that a final decision would be made.

Hearing Set Saturday on Secret Data

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Friday to hold a hearing on government attempts to restrain publication of articles in the New York Times and the Washington Post on a Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

The cases will be heard by the justices at 11 a.m. EDT Saturday. Meanwhile, the court barred the two newspapers from running any stories to which the government has objections.

The decision to step into the legal conflict followed a private conference attended by eight justices. The ninth, William O. Douglas, kept in touch by telephone from his summer home in Washington state and then arranged to fly to the capital for the hearing.

Had the court not acted before nightfall, the Post would have been free to resume its series without restrictions. In a plea filed Friday morning, the newspaper said the public interest required free discussion of the war and that any further restraint would be "totally intolerable."

The court split 5-to-4 in keeping the paper from running uncensored articles beginning with the Saturday edition.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, Byron White and Harry A. Blackmun supported the temporary ban.

Justices Hugo L. Black, Douglas, William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall dissented. "By the same vote the court continued restrictions placed on the Times by the U.S. Circuit Court in New York City. The Times will be able to print Saturday only material that the Justice Department considers safe for public consumption."

Tunnel Blast Linked With Earthquake

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state mining official says there could be some connection between the devastating Feb. 9 earthquake and a fiery natural methane gas explosion that ripped through an underground tunnel apparently killing 17 workers.

Dr. Gordon B. Oakeshott, deputy chief of the California Division of Mines and Geology, said the quake possibly could have disturbed underground formations and caused seepage of the deadly gas that exploded Thursday.

Seven bodies have been recovered and rescue teams continued to search for 10 missing workers. City fire rescue crews said dense smoke and debris hampered efforts to find the missing men. Conditions inside the tunnel were described as "untenable to support life."

Tourist Group Meets, Picks Officers

A meeting of the Southwest Arkansas Tourist Group was held last night at the Town and Country Restaurant. Permanent officers were elected. They are: W. C. Blewster, Magnolia, president; Charles Wilhite, Ashdown, vice-president; Stern Feinberg, Texarkana, executive vice-president; B. N. Holt, Hope, secretary-treasurer.

The original group of seven counties united to promote tourism in the area are: Hempstead, Nevada, Howard, Sevier, Little River, Miller, Lafayette. Six other counties have been invited to join the group; at present, Columbia County has accepted.

The next meeting of the group will be held Wednesday, July 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the Town and Country.

Health Group to Fight to Keep Status

By G. C. THELEN JR.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Surgeon General has called his 5,500 commissioned public health officers to battle a recommendation that their special status, and his, be abolished.

The angry response of Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld came only hours after an advisory committee appointed by the Nixon administration said his post and the 98-year-old commissioned corps of the Public Health Service should be eliminated.

"The report is so destructive to the corps that we will continue to suffer damage to morale, to recruitment and to retention during the interval while the report is being considered," Steinfeld said in a letter to members of the commissioned corps.

The committee, headed by John A. Perkins, former under secretary of health, education and welfare, said the paramilitary cadre of 5,500 doctors and other health professionals has lost its special mission and should be absorbed in the regular civil service system.

The commissioned corps constitutes only one-seventh of the otherwise civilian, 40,000-man Public Health Service.

Among its various tasks, the service operates hospitals for merchant seamen and lepers, dispenses financial aid to states for health facilities, provides medical care to federal prisoners, and treats narcotic addicts.

Steinfeld accused the Perkins committee of failing to consider seriously the option of retaining and improving the commissioned corps.

"I know also that the Congress and the people of the United States will wish to be consulted on this issue," the Surgeon General wrote.

He asked corps officers to submit to him "all constructive comments on the national career health personnel system" for forwarding to HEW Secretary Elliott L. Richardson.

The commissioned corps is made up primarily of young doctors fulfilling draft requirements outside the regular armed forces. In 1966, only nine per cent of the commissioned officers have remained in the health service.

Judge Agrees to Preside

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Court Judge William J. Kirby of Little Rock agreed Thursday to preside over the Pope County Grand Jury probe of the activities of Circuit Court Judge Russell C. Roberts.

Kirby agreed to exchange circuits with Roberts, at Roberts' request, from Monday through July 9.

Pros. Atty. Alex G. Streett of Russellville had requested the grand jury investigation of a fee system used by Roberts while presiding over Pope County, which is part of Roberts' five-county 5th Circuit.

Streett had filed a petition with Roberts Tuesday asking Roberts to ask the state Supreme Court to appoint a special judge for the proceeding.

Kirby said two or three days time would be needed to draw names for members of the grand jury, empanel the jury and charge it specifically to investigate Roberts, who lives at Conway.

Roberts will take Kirby's duties during Kirby's stay at Russellville.

The fee system became controversial when the state Supreme Court declared it illegal in felony cases for suspended sentences to be granted for the forfeiture of fees.

Discrimination Is Charged

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Justice Department filed suit in federal District Court here Thursday charging that a Morriston restaurant maintained a racially segregated dining room.

The suit asked that the owners of Jack and Elsie's Sandwich Shop, James E. Davidson and Elsie H. Davidson, be ordered to stop refusing service to persons on the basis of race in the dining room.

Heroin Test Proving Effective

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new heroin detection test now administered to all GIs leaving Vietnam has already proven itself an effective, hard-to-beat means of finding hard drug users, its developers say.

The test, pioneered by a civilian laboratory in the nation's capital, was described Thursday by its developers as 100 times more sensitive than previous methods.

It can reliably detect heroin up to five days after a user has had a "fix," they say.

The test is the key to "a revolutionary mass screening technique for the detection of narcotics in the body on a scale never before achieved," said officials of the Washington Reference Laboratory (WRL).

They said the rapid highly sensitive process, in combination with the best of older methods, is already used by their technicians to screen more than 2500 urine samples daily.

Mrs. Bette Hamman, the laboratory's chief toxicologist, said many of the samples come from patients already under treatment, or about to enter treatment, at centers dispensing methadone, a chemical designed to wean addicts away from heroin.

Dr. Lawrence H. Vineburgh, director of WRL, said he believes the Army's decision to introduce the system in Vietnam June 20 was inspired, at least in part, by information furnished to the Defense Department by his laboratories at the request of Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn.

Steele, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, along with Rep. Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., made a 22-day, nine-nation tour several months ago, studying international traffic in drugs. They were among the first to stress the problem of drug addiction among American troops in Vietnam.

An aide said Steele urged the Defense Department to use test equipment in South Vietnam and throughout the United States.

Whatever the inspiration, the U.S. command in South Vietnam opened up detection centers at Long Binh and Can Ranh Bay employing the new "FRAT" technique on June 20.

The system originally was developed by the Syva Research Institute of Palo Alto, Calif., which builds the electronic instruments required. The Army says only about 10 such machines are available, three of which are now in South Vietnam.

The method involves mixing a small urine sample—less than 1-20th of a drop—with a special reagent. When the reagent is mixed with a sample containing heroin, a recordable configuration of electrons is produced and in seconds, a pen describes lines on graph paper showing the amount of drug in the specimen.

Price Going Up for Fouke Monster

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Like everything else, the price for monsters is going up. Rewards totaling $1,290 have been offered for the capture of what Arkansans call "the Fouke monster."

The purported beast reportedly walks upright, is the height of a tall man but more fleet of foot than humans, dark, hairy, with claws.

What appeared to be a three-toed footprint, 13 inches long, has been photographed as corroboration of tales by persons who say they've seen the monster in rural areas near Fouke, 13 miles southeast of Texarkana.

Some relate that the monster breathed heavily near them in the night; some say it's clawed hand reached through their window; one man reports he fled so frantically he smashed through his own front door.

A few authorities suggest the tales compose a hoax, that the photograph is of a phony footprint, but the citizenry at Fouke has several times searched seriously, with loaded rifles, but unsuccessfully.

Raymond Scoggins of Texarkana, formerly of Fouke, offered the first reward, $200, for the live capture of the beast by Dec. 31.

"I believe in the monster," he said. "I want to preserve it in a zoo or wherever it belongs. I want to discourage the killing of it."

The authenticity of any purported monster must be verified by three Fouke officials as the Fouke monster, he said.

Radio Station KAAV of Little Rock posted a reward Thursday of $1,090, a figure matching the station's call letters.

Jack W. Lee of New York, executive vice president of KAAV-owner Lin Broadcasting Corp., announced the reward, saying, "Inasmuch as the creature known as the Fouke Monster has proven to be a source of mental anguish for the people of Arkansas, KAAV sees it as a public service to the state to do all it can to alleviate this problem."

The reward will go, he said, to anyone who turns in the "legitimate and valid" monster, whose authenticity will be determined by "well-known authorities."

The creature must be alive and in good health at the time of delivery and will become the property of the station, Lee said.

Teachers Reject Proposal

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The Fort Smith Classroom Teachers Association voted Thursday night to reject for the second time a salary proposal offered by the Fort Smith School Board.

Between 125 and 150 teachers voted at a meeting to reject the earlier offer by the board "due to violation by the school board of the professional consultation agreement."

Sid Johnson, CTA president, said that meetings under the agreement had ceased to be held prior to the board's most recent meeting.

The CTA asked that its negotiation committee meet again with the school board Monday. Johnson was authorized to name a committee to develop other plans of action, including the possible of court action.

The board has offered salary increases ranging from $117 to $400 and averaging about $255.

The teacher group asked that the board delay sending out contracts for the next school year. The board had voted Tuesday night to send contracts as soon as possible.

The dispute centers on the distribution of $229,000 provided for the district under the Arkansas school finance act of 1971.

The board plans to use $90,000 for new salary increases for teachers and $50,000 for the regular salary increases under the existing salary index.

The CTA contends the entire $140,000 earmarked for salaries should be for new pay increases with local funds required for the regular salary boosts covered by the index.

Bridge — Luncheon

Daisies and other summer flowers were in pretty arrangements at the Hope Country Club on Thursday, June 24 when the monthly Ladies Bridge-Luncheon was held. A tasty meal with ham as the main course was served, and bridge was played at 7 tables in the afternoon.

High scorer was Mrs. Louise Kalin, and second high was Mrs. Earl Lockett. Game prizes went to Mrs. Mildred Rogers and Mrs. C. C. Lewis. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. "Mutt" Wassell, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Mrs. Callie Hughson, Little Rock; and Mrs. Lenora Reeves, Malvern.

Centerville Homemakers Club Centerville Extension Homemakers Club met Wednesday in the Lodge Building.

Mrs. Porter Powers was hostess. Mrs. Vernie Goynes opened the meeting by reading The Thought of the month. Mrs. E.O. Bright Led the group in Singing, "Shine on Harvest Moon". Mrs. Powers used 133 Psalms for her devotional. The Lords Prayer was repeated in unison.

Mrs. Mamie gave an eye opener on sewing in zippers.

Mrs. Jim Langston gave a lesson on "Mixing Furniture Styles; and then read a poem, "Count Your Blessings."

The meeting closed by repeating "Womans Creed".

Cake, dip and chips and punch were served to 10 members and 1 guest, Mrs. Raymond Johnson.

Bridal Shower For Miss Booth

Miss Sally Booth, bride-elect of Joe Carter Short, was complimented at a drop-in bridal shower Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Eugene Lee, Fayetteville. Mrs. Wallie Ingalls and Mrs. Bruce Kellar were co-hostesses.

Miss Booth's chosen colors of yellow and turquoise were used throughout the entertaining area. The gift table was covered with a lace cloth and featured a bride's doll wearing a hand crocheted wedding gown. Mrs. John Coan, future sister-in-law of the honoree, assisted with opening and recording the gifts.

The serving table was draped with a white lace-trimmed cloth with crystal candle holders holding yellow candles on either side of the centerpiece which was composed of yellow and white snapdragons in a crystal bowl. Other table appointments were silver. Mrs. Kellar and Mrs. Ingalls presided at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Duffie Booth and Mrs. Carter Short, mothers of the engaged couple, and the honoree were presented corsages of white carnations.

The hostess gift was a pair of sterling silver candle sticks. Approximately thirty-five guests called during the evening.

CHANGEABLE AUNT PROVIDES TOO MANY UNCLES

Dear Helen:

My sister was married and divorced within a year. Six months later she started seeing an old boy friend.

Suddenly our children began getting holiday and birthday cards from her, signed "Aunt Deena and Uncle Dobie."

As I save our children's important cards in a scrapbook, and they already have cards signed "Aunt Deena and Uncle Steve" (former husband), this can be very confusing, especially since Deena is flighty and Dobie may be replaced any time for Bill or Tom or John.

When I asked her to sign singly until she was married, she got angry and sends hardly any cards at all, and when she does, they are blank.

Was I wrong?—SISTER

Dear Sister: Technically, you are right, but tactful you weren't. A new marriage will probably mend the small rift.—H.

Dear Helen:

Please, please help poor brides who will be getting shower and wedding gifts. Ask the gift givers to tell the truth.

I work in a big department store and exchanges are a problem made mountainous when the bride is TOLD the gift came from our rather exclusive store, when actually it was purchased at a discount house or some such.

I can see the person not wanting to say she got it with green stamps or it was a "left-over" from a previous shower, but it's the honest thing to do.

We can tell our merchandise from the markings and we don't want extra items, even if we stock the same brand.

So please, people out there, don't put your gift in one of OUR boxes unless it came from our store! And don't fib.—A GUY FROM N.J.

Dear Helen:

My wife had our baby a year ago and her breasts got really

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tolleson and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morgan to provide transportation back to Hope for the boys.

small. She has worried herself sick about it. Says she hates her body, though the doctor said she'd have to learn to live with it.

I'm trying to hold down a job and go to night school so things are tough for both of us. For months she's been depressed, nervous and irritable and she's lost 15 pounds which makes the situation worse.

I mucked things up good when I almost had an affair with a really "busty" girl down the street and my wife knew.

I got back my senses in time, and I keep telling her she has nothing to worry about and she sobs.

"THAT'S THE TROUBLE." It seems like I'm always saying the wrong, thing, like "making mountains out of molehills," ect.

Now she's talking about breast surgery, and I'm for it, if it would improve her self-confidence and disposition, plus being safe and within our price range, and if the plastic wouldn't become hard as a rock in time.

Is this the answer?—ALMOST TURNED OFF

Dear ATO:

Are you sure it isn't YOUR attitude that has made your wife hate her body?

Before she consults a plastic surgeon, I think you should both visit a counselor who might persuade you that you are making much too much over not so little.

The operation? It's expensive, not always successful (the body sometimes rejects the fluid-filled plastic bags); and silicone injections are definitely out: the material turns hard, has a tendency to shift, and can hide cancer.—H.

Television and Named Miss LaPetite
Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Hal Kanter is a comedy specialist who makes a very handsome living creating just about the most warm, lovable and wholesome folks we've ever met—on television. His most recent was that gorgeous R. N. "Julia."

Next season it will be an absent-minded professor, played by James Stewart. Now Hal Kanter has created a novel, called "Snake in the Glass," about a bunch of Hollywood-Madison Avenue types who are anything but warm and lovable. Since the rewards of novel-writing usually do not compare with those obtained by producing popular television series, it must be regarded as a labor of love or frustration.

The contrast between Kanter's TV characters and the novel's aggressive, venal or frightened people who are connected with a TV comedy show is marked. But it is the high content of four-letter words and explicit scenes that make it a bit of a shocker, mostly because Kanter's style is usually so gentle and chaste.

The newly minted author, in New York to launch and plug the book, explained:

"I've always wanted to write a book. Film is okay but it comes in cans and what can you do with a can? But a book is right there. It's printed. Best of all, a book is not dependent on actors. It is your own—all these other things are collaborative efforts."

Kanter, in a lull, started the novel about four years ago "but one day I went to a Roy Wilkins luncheon—and right home to write a pilot for 'Julia.'"

Even after he became furiously busy with the NBC series—producer and occasionally directing and writing episodes over three seasons—he would occasionally pound out a chapter of the book.

"It was sort of a spiritual cathartic after writing Corey Baker and Earl J. Waggoner dialogue," said Kanter, referring to the two lovable, warm little boys he created for the series.

The original version of the novel was not as bawdy—his word—as the finished product. Kanter's publishing house editor reminded him that dirty books seem to sell better than clean ones today, so Hal worked over the manuscript again. His principal character, a loathsome young comedy writer became a ruthless womanizer; an unhappily married woman became a flagrant nymphomaniac; the language became, well, earthier.

Kanter insists none of his characters is a portrait of a real person in the television world. However, part of the fun of reading any novel set in Hollywood is trying to pin a real-life identity on fictional creations. His detestable Andy Grant will probably be identified with at least 15 people.

2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
2 tablespoons diced pimiento

Break cauliflower into flowerettes (makes about 3 cups). Cook in boiling, salted water to cover for 7 minutes or until just crisp tender. Remove from boiling water and rinse in cold water; drain thoroughly. Put into a bowl; set aside. Cook pea pods in 1 inch of boiling salted water for 1 minute; drain well. Add to cauliflower along with water chestnuts. Cover and chill thoroughly. Just before serving make dressing. Combine oil with vinegar, sugar, salt, garlic powder and white pepper. Pour over vegetable mixture; toss well. Add pimiento; toss gently. Makes 6 portions.

Shawn Simone Stark, 6 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stark of Little Rock, was crowned "Miss LaPetite" in a pageant held May 22nd in Sylvan Hills. She will compete for the state title in July at Conway. She was also runner-up in the Little American Miss Pageant held recently in Brinkley.

Shawn is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey White.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

There are many steak houses in New York City. One of the most popular because of its location and relaxing atmosphere is O. Henry's in Greenwich Village. Before owner Gil Di Lucia opened the steak house it was the site of a butcher shop — a 50-year-old landmark to Villagers. Di Lucia set up business with chopping-block topped tables, sawdust on the floor, meat hooks along the wall and gas-burning light fixtures. Di Lucia says he named the establishment for his favorite writer. Especially important to diners are the well-seasoned dressings — here are two to accompany steaks cooked at home.

well. Cut lettuce in wedges and serve with dressing. Reserve any remaining dressing for future use. Makes 2 1/2 cups dressing.

FRENCH DRESSING

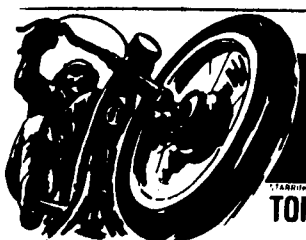

1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon paprika
1 cup corn oil
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Dash Tabasco pepper sauce
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire Dash salt

Core lettuce; rinse in cold water; drain well. Place in plastic bag; refrigerate. Blend egg yolk and paprika; slowly add salad oil, beating constantly. Stir in red and white vinegars, sugar, monosodium glutamate, Tabasco, Worcestershire and salt. Store in cool place. At serving time, quarter lettuce and serve with dressing. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing.

Dan Sikes Is Leader at Cleveland

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — First round leader Dan Sikes admitted he had "a little added incentive going this week" in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

"A lot of us are in the same position," the golfing attorney from Jacksonville, Fla. said Thursday after firing a sparkling, seven-under-par 64. "We're trying to make the Ryder Cup team and this is the last week for it."

A 12-man team will be selected from point standings compiled at the end of this tournament. The team will play Britain's best in St. Louis this fall.

Sikes, 40, a consistent money-maker but a non-winner on the tour since 1968, currently is 23rd on the point list and must pass 11 players to make it.

Sikes winner of six titles in his 11 years on the pro tour, broke a massive log jam when he finished late in the afternoon at the 6,643 yard, par 71 Beechmont Country Club course.

Eight players were listed in a tie for the top spot at 66 when he took the lead. There were seven others at 67, comprising the most unchained-up field on the tour this year.

The group at 66 was made up of scrambling Dave Stockton, who hit only five fairways but needed only 25 putts, Gene Littler, Mason Rudolph, Bobby Mitchell, club pro George Belino and three former Masters champions—Bob Goalby, Gay Brewer and George Archer.

Charles Coody, the current Masters king, and Billy Casper topped the bunch at 67.

Lee Trevino, fresh off his victory in the United States Open and the pro-tourney favorite here, could manage only a 70, putting him well back.

He missed seven putts of 10 feet or less.

Defending champion Bruce Devlin of Australia also had some problems, matching par 71.

Caponi Is Going for 3rd US Open

By KAROL STONGER

Associated Press Sports Writer
ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Donna Caponi, bidding for an unprecedented third straight U.S. Women's Open golf title, doesn't want to win it the way she did last year.

The 26-year-old brunette, tied with Joanne Carner for a lone-stroke lead going into today's second round at the Kahkwa Club course, still cringes when reminded of her windup at Muskogee, Okla., in 1970.

She took a double bogey on the final hole—before a national television audience and has taken a lot of lip since.

"I was criticized by a lot of people who said it was bad for the image of women's golf," she said after shooting a two-under-par 70 over the 6,306-yard course Thursday. "But they forget that I played 71 of the greatest holes of my life before that."

Mrs. Carner, who turned professional at the age of 30 and was named rookie of the year after winning the Wendell West Open last year, tied Miss Caponi for the lead even though she only hit six fairways and said her putting was bad.

Her first birdie, on the par five No. 5, came after hitting out of the rough first on the right then the left. She bogeyed the par four No. 1 but birdied the par four 13th and

Dodgers Blast Cardinals 11-4 at Home

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
What do Dave McNally and Jim Slaton have in common?

Well, not much really. After all, McNally has been pitching for the Baltimore Orioles for 10 seasons while Slaton wasn't even in the major league when this one began.

But they both had the opposition in the palms of their hands Thursday as they tossed four-hitters, McNally stopping Washington 6-1 at night and Slaton carrying the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-0 blanking of California in a day game.

In the only other American League night game on the abbreviated schedule, Detroit silenced Cleveland 3-0. Oakland's game at Minnesota was rained out.

In National League action, Los Angeles ripped St. Louis 11-4, the New York Mets nipped Montreal 2-1 and Philadelphia clipped Cincinnati 3-1 in 10 innings.

McNally's 12th triumph of the year against just four setbacks put him second only to Oakland's 15-game winner Vida Blue in major league victories. Slaton, 2-1, was rewarded with his first complete game and first shutout in the majors.

The Baltimore left-hander got all the runs he needed in the first inning as Don Buford crashed a leadoff homer and Brooks Robinson followed walks to Boog Powell and Frank Robinson with a single for the first of his three runs batted in.

Brooks also lofted a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the third and singled in a run home in the fifth, then took second on a walk and scored himself when Andy Etchebarren, grounding into a forceout, kept the Senators busy on a rundown play between first and second.

The victory was the Orioles' 20th in 25 games and kept them 6½ games ahead of Detroit in the American League East.

The Brewers staked Slaton to a five-run lead in the fourth inning and the young hurler protected with a two-hitter until the Angels opened the eighth with a pair of singles. But a forceout and Tony Gonzalez' double play grounder got him out of danger.

Tommy Harper ignited the Brewers' outburst with their first hit off Clyde Wright, 7-7. A walk and Andy Kosco's single broke the scoreless duel and, after another walk, Dave May smacked a three-run double, then scored on Slaton's infield single when catcher Jeff Torborg dropped the throw to the plate.

Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits and fanned 11 Cleveland batters as the Tigers slipped past idle Boston into second place in the East Division.

Singles by Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley and Norm Cash's sacrifice fly produced a first-inning run and Detroit capped the scoring in the seventh on Aurelio Rodriguez' double, Gene Lamont's single, Lolich's sacrifice and McAuliffe's single.

IL All-Stars Pound Yank Pitchers

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The International League All-Stars pounded three Yankee pitchers for 17 hits, then held on to defeat New York 15-13 Thursday night in the 15th annual IL All-Star game.

A crowd of 11,001 saw the Stars slam three home runs, then take a 15-7 lead. But the Yankees struck back and had the tying runs on base when the game ended.

Left-hander Bill Rohr of Tidewater was the winning pitcher. He pitched a scoreless fifth inning. In the bottom of that inning, Dave McDonald of Winnipeg hit a home-run to break a 7-7 tie. The blow came off right-hander Jim Hardin, who was also clipped for a three-run home run by George Pena of Syracuse.

Pena drove in five runs, with a home run, single and double, and was voted the most valuable player in the game. His RBI total broke an All-Star game record. Other home runs were hit by Bobbie Grich of Rochester for the All-Stars and Bobbie Murcer and Jake Gibbs for New York.

Legendary UCLA Grid Player Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kenny Washington, a legendary football player for UCLA and the Los Angeles Rams, died Thursday night, the UCLA Medical Center said.

Washington, 52, had been suffering from polyarteritis, a heart and respiratory condition. Washington's long slender legs churned out a UCLA school record of 1,915 yards as a varsity tailback in 1937-39.

"I can take a little exercise, walking around, but I get tired pretty easily," he said in an interview last year from a hospital bed at UCLA. He was later released.

A spokesman for UCLA said Washington was readmitted June 11 and placed in a private room. He died at 6:15 p.m.

It was primarily Washington who ran and passed UCLA nearly 1,300 yards in the air, out of obscurity into national acclaim.

And it was Washington who in 1946 became the first black man to play in the National Football League in 13 years—with the Rams.

As for his illness, Washington told friends, "I'll think I'll whip it."

But last year Washington was reported near death with polyarteritis, a disease in which fluid congested around his heart and lungs.

In October 1970, about 1,000 friends and admirers from sports, entertainment business and government gathered at the Hollywood Paladium to honor him.

From all appearances at the affair Washington had the illness whipped. He stood straight on the long slender legs and knobby knees that were a chronic bother in his football days, but once off galloping, he was hard to bring down.

Fine Hurling by McNally and Slaton

What is so rare as a day in June?

Any weekday when the Dodgers play baseball in Los Angeles.

Or a Tom Seaver home run. The Dodgers made the most of an infrequent matinee home date Thursday, trouncing St. Louis 11-4 with a sunburst of 14 hits.

Then, in a night game, the New York Mets made the most of Seaver's second major league homer—a tie-breaking shot in the eighth inning—to nip the Montreal Expos 2-1 behind their ace right-hander's five-hitter.

In the only other game on the National League schedule, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 3-1 on a two-run single by rookie Roger Freed in the 10th inning.

In the American League, Milwaukee trimmed California 6-0; Baltimore whipped Washington 6-1 and Detroit blanked Cleveland 3-0. Oakland and Minnesota were rained out.

The Dodgers, beaten twice by the Cardinals under the lights, bounced back to take the finale of the three-game set before an afternoon crowd of 19,282.

It was the only midweek day game scheduled this season for Los Angeles, where the Dodgers played exclusively at night last year except on weekends.

"I like it," said Jim Lefebvre, who broke out of a two-week slump to pace the Dodgers' attack with a homer and two singles, good for four runs batted in. "Now I can have dinner at home and relax."

Lefebvre, who went into the game with just four hits in his previous 38 at-bats, poked an RBI single as the Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the second inning, then poked his seventh homer of the season with two on in the fourth.

Lefebvre's three hits brought his season average back up to .284.

Seaver jumped on a 1-1 pitch from Bill Stoneman with two out in the eighth and drove it over the left field fence to break a 1-1 deadlock at Montreal. The first homer of his five-year NL career also came at the expense of the Expos—last season with Rich Nye the victim.

He struck out nine Expos on the way to his ninth victory against three setbacks.

Stoneman, 9-6, also gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and struck out eight, bringing his league-leading total to 134.

The Reds, victims of Rick Wise's no-hitter Wednesday night, finally broke their scoring famine when two-out doubles by Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo in the ninth lifted them into a 1-1 tie.

But the Phils pushed over the deciding runs in the 10th on Larry Bowa's single, a sacrifice, two walks and Freed's bases-loaded single up the middle.

Pocono 500 Drivers See $430,100

By BLOYS BRITT

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — With prize and accessory money established at a minimum of $430,100, drivers went out for their final practice runs today leading to a weekend of official time trials for the July 3 Schaeffer 500 mile race.

The winner of this "Indianapolis of the East" could take home as much as $100,000, not including lap prize money. With only one round of shake-down tests remaining, Mark Donohue and Pete Revson were well out front in the betting sweepstakes for pole honors. The 33-car starting field will be decided in trials Saturday and Sunday.

Donohue had turned the fastest speed over the 2.5-mile triangle-shaped Pocono International Raceway, a sparkling 172.2 miles per hour. He posted it Wednesday, climaxing two days of effort with a McLaren racer that was wrecked at Indianapolis.

Revson had the next top time, 170.3, also in a McLaren, but was carrying a full load of fuel at the time, Revson surprised even himself by edging Donohue for the Indy 500 pole, clocking 178.696 to Donohue's 177.087.

Unless others come up with some extra speed in the final practice session, the main contenders for front row honors besides Revson and Donohue, appeared to be Al Unser, the Indy winner two times in a row; Joe Leonard, Al's teammate; Mario Andretti, Bobby Unser and J.F. Foyt.

Rickey Thursday finished off Roger Taylor of Britain in less than 30 minutes. The match had been called at 7-7 in the final set because of darkness the previous night.

Fast Lady Is Taking Money From Boys

Drumtop, a fast lady who has been taking money away from the boys, will try to do it again Saturday in the $125,000-added Ford Pinto Invitational Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Drumtop, James B. Mosley's 5-year-old mare who has beaten males in winning three straight turf stakes, was one of nine horses entered for the 1½ mile grass test.

He toughest competition in the Pinto should come from Mrs. Mary F. Jones' Chilean-bred Cougar II, winner of four of seven 1971 starts including the $138,600 California, and first inning on run-scoring singles by Kenny Reitz and Jim Greer, but a homer by Glenn Stitzel pulled Memphis within one run.

Arkansas got a run in the third inning when a double by Bob Wissler scored Jorge Roque, but the lead fell to 3-2 when Frank Estrada homered for the Blues.

The victory cut the Travelers lead over Memphis in the association's Central Division to only two games. The teams play in Memphis again tonight.

Ashe Upset in Wimbledon Tennis Play

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe, eliminated from the Wimbledon Tennis Tournament, predicted today that Rod Laver or John Newcombe will win the title.

"But Stan Smith is right there behind them," Ashe said. "Stan has a good chance because he's playing better than he has ever done before."

Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., who is seeded fourth, moved easily into the last 16 Thursday by defeating Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. The tall fair-haired Californian is on extended leave from the U.S. Army.

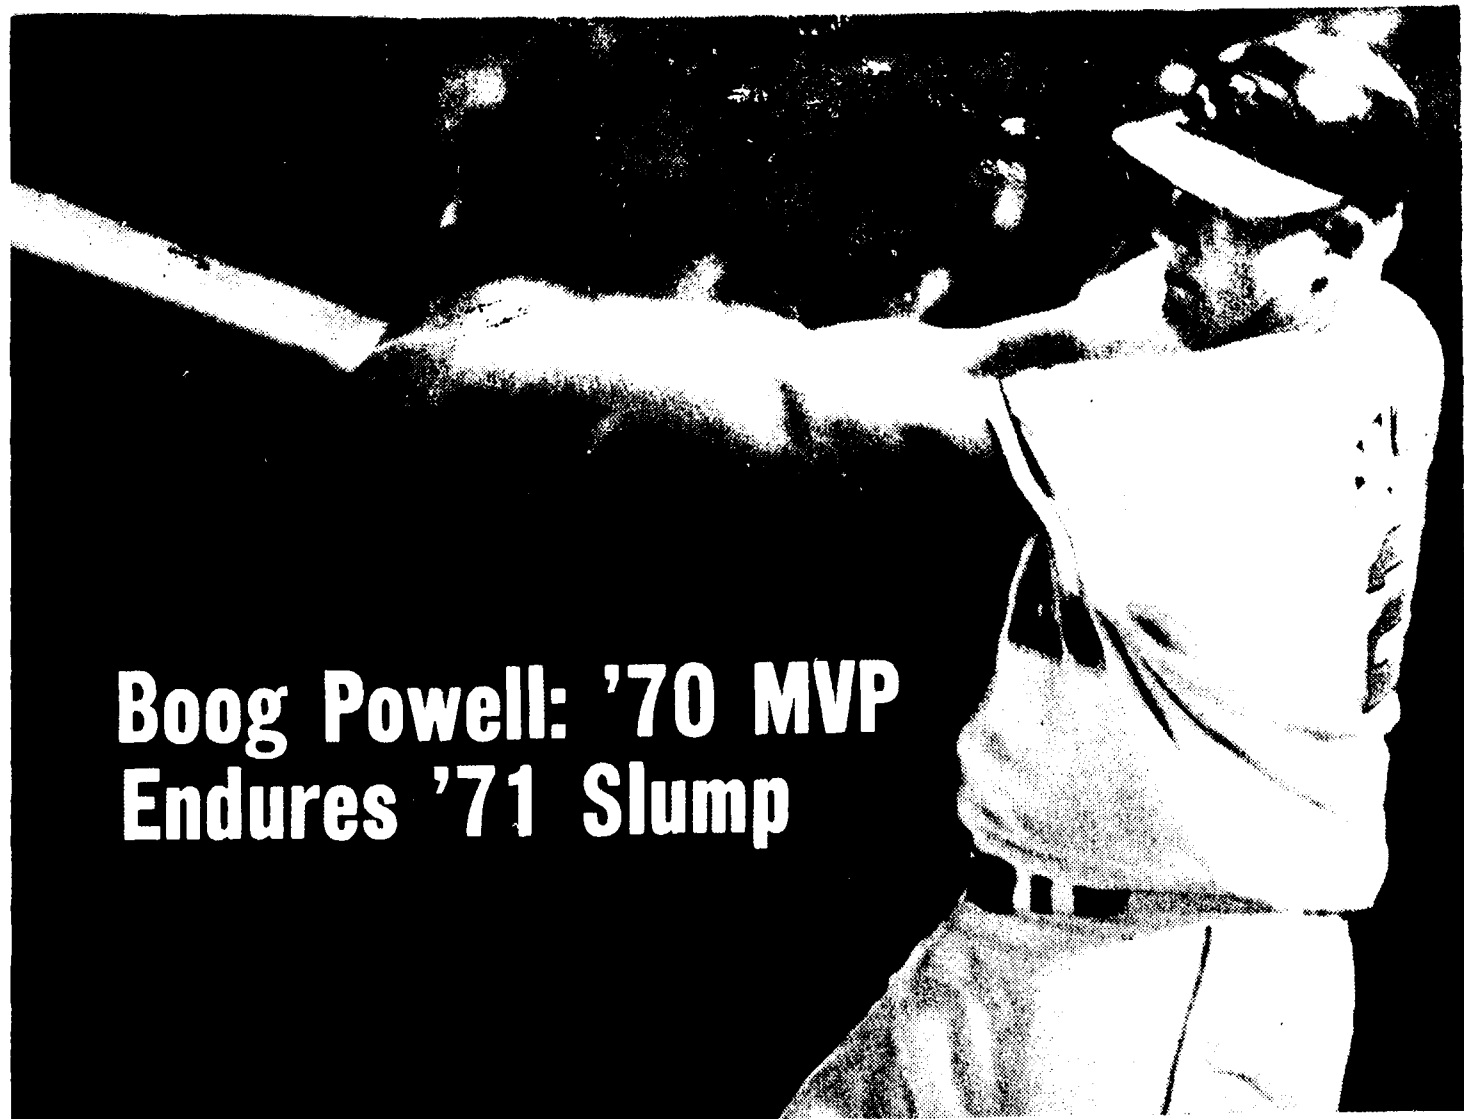

Ashe said: "Laver and Newcombe, both previous champions, must be favorites to win. I think Ken Rosewall's chance gets a little slimmer each year."

Laver, now 32, won the Wimbledon crown in 1961, 1962, 1968 and 1969. Newcombe won it last year for the second time.

Rosewall is 36. He reached the final last year—as he had done as a youngster in 1954 and 1956.

She, of Gum Spring, Va., was seeded fifth but was upset Thursday by Marty Riessen, of Evanston, Ill., 6-1, 9-8, 8-9, 6-4.

Ashe didn't include Riessen, his close friend, among his

Boog Powell: '70 MVP Endures '71 Slump

By JOHN SCHULIAN

BALTIMORE — (NEA) — Boog Powell, the Baltimore Orioles' pillar of strength, hit .217 in the first month of the 1971 season. He followed that by batting .176 in May. Then he waited 11 days until his first hit in June. Some pillar. Some strength.

Faced with the indignity of it all, Powell insists there will be no alterations in his free-swinging style. "You have to be natural," he said as he puffed his way through half a pack of cigarettes before another 0-for-3 game. "That's how I got here—with my swing."

It is the confidence of a craftsman who knows he can do his job well, perhaps better than anyone else. Which is what the American League's Most Valuable Player selectors were trying to get across last year, when they voted him MVP after he hit .297, drove in 114 runs and clubbed 35 homers.

It is also the confidence of a man who knows that people in higher places have faith in him. "When you're in a slump," said Powell, "it's a matter of playing yourself out of it, if you're fortunate enough to have a manager who will go along with you."

True to the description, Earl Weaver, the Orioles' manager, continues to pencil Powell into the middle of the Baltimore batting order and then watch him tap feeble ground balls to the infield and leave an unseemly number of men on base.

Weaver has even gone a step further and is now dispensing propaganda in his first basemen's behalf, though skeptics say it is to convince himself as much as the public.

Looking at the Williamsian season Tony Oliva is having for the Minnesota Twins, Weaver argues, "With all his hitting, he's been on base about 12 times more than Boog this year. Boog has been getting on, scoring runs, moving guys up, and he's got more RBIs than Oliva."

Once Boog Powell, now 29, would not have expected such kind words in such distressing times. Until 1970 he was considered a talented player whose performances had all the consistency of a roller-coaster ride.

Powell's first big season was 1964, when he established a personal high of 39 home runs. The next year he banked the fires of optimism for all those who envisioned him as the new-born Babe; he hit .248, with just 17 homers.

When the Orioles soared to their first world championship in 1966, Boog flew as high as any of them. And when they plummeted to sixth place in 1967, he sank just as low.

The performances forced Boog to keep company with a haunting question: Is it always going to be this way, one good year and one bad one?

After a so-so 1968 season, he got the answer he was looking for, rising to 34 home runs, 121 RBIs and a .304 batting average in 1969 and winning the MVP award last year.

With those credentials, Powell is riding out a sub-.200 batting average this season in the Orioles' line-up and not on their bench.

Boog has received some mild criticism aimed at his pear-shaped body. The advice is that he should pare about 25 pounds from his present 250.

"That's what a few people say," Boog said stiffly. "But I hit with a bat, not my stomach. They ought to know a slump is one of the hazards of the occupation."

In the end, though, there is only one thing a man in a prolonged slump can expect: abuse. Most Baltimore fans have held their tongues thus far, but the potential is obvious. The normal greeting when Powell walks to the plate is "Boooooong." All the fans have to do is drop the "g."

Esposito Is First Winner of Trophy

TORONTO (AP) — Phil Esposito, record-breaking scoring center with the Boston Bruins, was named Thursday the first winner of the Lester B. Pearson Trophy, awarded to the most valuable player in the National Hockey League selected by the players.

Pearson, former Canadian prime minister, made the presentation himself at a dinner attended by 60 NHL players here to take part in their annual golf tournament which starts today.

"It must be a great honor to be chosen by your peers," Pearson told Esposito as he presented the trophy. The rangy Bruins' star scored a record 76 goals and 152 points in regular season play in 1970-71.

Ramos Inspired Giant Ace

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The late, legendary Bumbo Ramos must be tossed as many bouquets as anyone for the San Francisco Giants' quick start this season.

Bumbo was killed in a plane crash some years back, but he left a prize legacy. It was Bumbo who turned Juan Marichal into a pitcher. And Marichal is the backbone of the Giants' staff.

When Marichal was a lad of 10, he went to see Bumbo pitch for the best amateur team the Dominican Republic has ever had, according to Marichal. Bumbo was from Marichal's home town, Montecristo.

"I was a shortstop then," said Marichal in front of his locker recently. "Then I saw Bumbo. Oooh. The next day I was a pitcher."

"He threw sidearm and he would turn around and all the batter would see his number. He would talk to the batter, too. 'You better hit this one because if you don't you won't even see the next one.' You wouldn't either. He was very fast. He was my idol."

Once, Marichal would stand on the mound and imagine that he was Bumbo. That was when he was an amateur, he said, and when you could have fun. As a professional, however, Marichal says that it is too serious, and so many things come to mind so quickly about the batter that he no longer has time for reminiscing.

He is so intense that he wears batting gloves when changing from mufit to business knickers. Two days before this season started, Marichal was rummaging in his shaving kit and cut his naked finger on a blade. The cut bothered him for three weeks. That's why he wears gloves before a game nowadays.

He is also serious about his role as an idol.

"The kids, they expect so much from you," said Marichal. And so, he says, he does not drink or smoke and never goes to a bar where trouble might pop up and give you a black eye. "It would not look too good in the paper," said Marichal.

His 1970 record did not look too good to him in the paper, either. He won 12, lost 10, and had his highest earned run average, 4.11, in his 11 big-league seasons.

He said that a reaction to a penicillin shot caused much of his misery last year. But he still became only the third active pitcher to win 200 games. Something neither he nor Bumbo dreamed Wednesday.

The 29-year-old resident of Porterville, Calif., will drive a Junior Johnson-prepared car owned by Vernon Blank, a former assistant on Smokey Ynk's team.

Brooks qualified 10th for last year's Firecracker and finished fifth. He became the 60th entrant in the $80,205 1971 Firecracker 400.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A 22-year-old brunette, Tiziana Sozzi, has become Italy's first female jockey and is scheduled to make her track debut in August at Clairefontaine, France. She weighs 100 pounds.

JUAN MARICHAL has rebounded from an off-season in 1970 to return to his accustomed place as backbone of the San Francisco Giants' pitching staff.

possible years ago in Montecristo.

"But I did love baseball so much," said Marichal. "I saved bubblegum cards. My two favorites were Sal Maglie and Carl Hubbell. Especially Maglie, because he was a right-handed pitcher like me. And I liked what they called him, The Shaver. Once the Dodgers played in my country and I liked Duke Snider. They called him The Destructor."

"And maybe I missed school two days in a row to play baseball in a backyard. My mother would catch me. 'Tell me, what you gonna get from baseball?' She would be mad. All I could tell her was that someday she will hear me play on radio, just like Bumbo Ramos because in those days every house in the Dominican Republic listened to those games. I never thought of the major leagues."

"But she wanted me to get my education. When I was 15 I was playing with the men. She didn't like that, either. She thought I would get hurt, that one of the big men would run over me."

"It is easy for me to remember those days. I remember the time I was so proud of my older brother, Gonzalo. He was a very good baseball player. He was an outfielder and a pitcher and he played the infield, too. I thing I was 11 years old and I was watching the game in this open field. Somebody said, 'We have no catcher.' And Gonzalo said, 'I can catch.' I did not know he could do this. When he put the equipment over his head I got the goose pimples on my arm. It was the greatest feeling I ever had."

Young people still concern Marichal. "In America, the kids like autographs," he said. "And sometimes I feel so bad when a little kid is in a crowd and gets crushed. In my country they don't care so much for autographs. But they really follow you inside. They want to run like Willie Mays. steal bases like Maury Wills."

And pitch like Juan Marichal? he was asked. He laughed. "Let me tell you, if these kids could have seen Bumbo Ramos. They would have had some idol."

Nonetheless, each time Juan Marichal pitches now, the game is broadcast by a station in the Dominican Republic. Homes all over the country are tuned in, including Mama Marichal's.

Mays Is Leading in Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays replaced Johnny Bench as the leading vote getter in the balloting for the National League All-Star team, the Commissioner's office announced today.

With over one million ballots counted, and less than one week to go before the voting deadline of June 30, the Giants' venerable 40-year-old center fielder has received 540,390 votes, while Hank Aaron of Atlanta is third with 526,386.

The closest race is for the starting shortstop berth. But Harrelson of the Mets leads with 276,809, but he is followed closely by Don Kessinger of the Cubs, 211,885, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, 197,735.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates, who leads the majors in homers and RBI, is third in the outfield behind Mays and Aaron. Joining Bench and Harrelson as the infield leaders are Willie McCovey, Giants, first base; Glenn Beckert, Cubs, second base; and Joe Torre, Cardinals, third base.

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played Tuesday night, July 13, in Detroit.

A Visit from 'Bigfoot' Monster of the West

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The International Wildlife Conservation Society has launched an effort to catch one of the most elusive, perhaps most legendary, and possibly most mythological creatures in the nation: the monster, Bigfoot.

Bigfoot is reputed to be a large, hairy, manlike creature who roams the Pacific Northwest frightening outdoorsmen and proliferating the campfire stories about his being. Many say they've seen him, some say they've photographed him—and now the IWCS, for the sake of science, is out to bring in Bigfoot dead or alive.

Personally, I hope they get him alive. I've got a bit of fondness for the old, hairy thing. You see, I met him myself some years ago in a Montana forest.

All right, no snickers.

I was a young sports reporter at the time, my first job, working for a newspaper out of Kalispell, Mont. In some respects, given the surroundings, my duties were more pleasure than work. The area around Kalispell is obviously set aside by providence for apprecia-

North was too strong to just raise his partner to two hearts. Therefore, he showed his club suit before he went to three hearts. South had no problem bidding game, but he did have a problem in his play.

The defense started out by taking three diamond tricks. Then East shifted to a spade and South was in with the ace.

A beginner would have had no trouble with the hand. He would draw trumps and go after clubs. They would break 3-3 and the rubber would be over.

South was a more knowledgeable player. He knew that suits tended to break 4-2. Hence, he played king of clubs, ace of clubs and ruffed a low club. Then he started on trumps. Unfortunately, West had one more trump than dummy and, instead of making 10 tricks, South didn't even make nine and was down two.

South complained that for anyone else the trumps would have broken 3-3 and that his sensible safety play had cost him the rubber.

South's play had cost him the rubber, but it was neither a safety play nor sensible. He should have played two rounds of trumps before touching clubs. Had both opponents followed, he could then have played clubs. When East showed out, South should have kept playing trumps and fallen back on the 3-3 club break to score 10 tricks.

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
2 ♠	1 ♥	Dble	2 ♥
4 ♠	3 ♥	3 ♠	Pass
	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A 9 4 3 ♥ Q 7 6 2 ♦ 5 3 ♣ 9 6 4

What do you do now?

A—Double. No guarantee goes with this, but your trump will cause trouble.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two spades, West has passed. Your partner bids three hearts. What do you do now?

tive men. Giant forests, swift rivers, a place where there are more moose than motorcycles, where, if a man wants, he can be utterly alone.

There was at the time at least one man in that area who wanted to be so alone. A hermit who lived in the primitive woods northwest of Kalispell. I had heard about him, and wondered at the stories of his hand-made furniture, his monk philosophy, his cabin walls which were draped only with the hides of albino wildlife.

So I decided to seek him out.

Armed with a 30-30 rifle, which I had previously fired only once, at a tin can, missing, I drove north to Columbia Falls and there set out on foot in the direction I had been advised. It was lovely, secluded and, for a chap with a once-used rifle, menacing country. But as if I was going to run into the old hermit any minute, I moved ever deeper into the woods—following a compass needle.

Now it should be said that I have never been much with a compass. They wiggle so much, you know. And it escapes me, this theory of sighting in on distant trees. In the wilds of northern Montana, who can tell a distant tree from any other?

So I suppose I was off trail from the beginning. And the couple of hours it was supposed to take me to reach the hermit's digs had gone by two or three times before I realized I was floundering about. I wasn't lost, because I could at least tell general direction from the compass. But clearly, I decided at dusk, I think, I was

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Key to Good Diet
Is Good Judgment

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Because a healthy diet is so important, I want to comment about the squabble over fats. No foods need be omitted entirely from the diet. You can eat meat, drink milk and even eat a few egg yolks (the American Heart Assn. says no more than three a week)—as long as you don't overdo it.

We Americans are a curious lot with a habit of overdoing things—including calories. Lean meats such as round steak with all the visible fat removed can be used in your diet. If you don't eat too many egg yolks, you can eat liver once a week and still be on a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet.

A fat-restricted diet should decrease the percentage of calories from fat—obviously if you eat a reasonable portion of lean meat, with a suitable quantity of vegetables, fruits and salads, the total calories will come from many foods that contain little or no fat. A balanced diet means just that—not a meal of a two-pound steak with fat, not a meal of lettuce or chocolate pie. I don't approve of diets based solely on meats. You need the bulk, vitamins and minerals abundant in vegetables and cereals. To restrict calories, eliminate fat and sugar.

If the American eating habits were based on a more balanced diet in a quantity to prevent or eliminate obesity, there would not be so much trouble. That means going back to eating patterns like those of several decades ago and increasing one's level of physical activity.

Much of the problem is too many calories. That's where fat is important, regardless of whether it is polyunsaturated fat from corn oil or butter or lard. Neither fat nor sugar contributes much to the necessary vitamin and mineral intake for the body.

Meat is also a problem because it contains lots of fat. If you use lean meats, it isn't a problem. Many meats considered high-protein foods are really high-fat foods and if you calculate the percentage of calories from fat as opposed to proteins you will find more calories from fat than protein. This same can be said about whole milk and processed and cured cheese.

Be selective. Use egg whites, nonfat milk powder, low-fat drinking milk, uncreamed cottage cheese, lean beef or ham, fryer chickens (not mature birds or roast-ers), lean fish, not fat ones like sardines or salmon, vegetables and fruit, but not avocados, olives or coconuts. Then limit the addition of fat in preparation.

not going to locate the hermit and his albino wallpaper that day.

I sat down then, to rest and relax, before starting back. I eased myself against a tree, which was on one of a series of small hills. I set aside my rifle, pushed my feet out and began to study a carpenter ant who was exploring my trousers.

Then I heard it. I say IT, rather than WHAT, out of ignorance.

I swear the noise was like wailing, only not mournful wailing. Happy wailing? I can't help it, so help me, it sounded rhythmic, patterned—I shall say singsong.

I remember thinking that it must be a hunter. And, knowing about hunters as I did, I remember wishing I had worn a red cap to distinguish me from a deer. I got up, to be as conspicuous as possible, and looked around. I had intentions of calling out, but thought better of it. And as the moments passed, and the singsong continued, my hours spent viewing TV Westerns overcame me—I reached for my gun.

Suddenly, and I swear by the Abominable Snowman, I saw it. About 50 yards away. Coming down off one of the interconnected hills, passing at moderate speed through the woods, disappearing and reappearing in the trees. I don't remember feeling anything. I could see plainly that it was not like anything I had ever seen before. It had swinging arms, like a B-grade gorilla movie, a gray coat of hair, and a small head which I could not make out. And it was moving parallel to me.

Now, to be honest, I don't know if it saw me. But it stopped. And seemed to look in my direction. As it stopped, so did its song. I raised my rifle, forgot to take the safety off, but did nothing anyway. The thing paused for just a moment, then moved, silently now, off in a direction my shaky compass said was north.

I began to tremble after that. I remembered the stories I had read about the Sasquatch in Canada or the Yeti in the Himalayas. And I remembered the giggles of disbelief that always accompanied their telling. I remembered reading of the fabled Adam's Peak, in central Ceylon, where a large footlike depression is worshipped by natives as belonging to either Buddha or a man-monster.

I beat it out of the forest then and, to hell with the old hermit, I never went back. I never wrote the story before either. Because I knew that invariably some suspicious reader would write me to ask if I had ever seen a flying saucer, too.

And I'd have to answer, abashed, yes, I've done that, too.

QUICK QUIZ

Q--Which is the world's largest dam?

A--Measured by volume, it is the Fort Peck Dam across the Missouri River in Montana.

Q--Does the century plant bloom only after 100 years?

A--There is no authentic record that any century plant even lives that long. The plant flowers only once, any time after 10 to 15 years, and then dies, but before doing so produces several young plants to perpetuate itself.

HOLD ON

How we love to watch these trapeze artists perform! We watch them in amazement, though feeling some peril in their doings. We can almost hear the crowd say "Hold On!" It is a parable of you and me. God is the strong member of the team. We live every day in peril and difficulty... we hang from His hand.

We must hold to the hand of God if we win. Prayer is our aid to keep his hand in ours. We read The Book and attend His church for courage and strength. But a closer look will give us hope. We are "holding on" to God but better still God is "holding on" to us.

God does not faint or grow weary. Then "hold on" to Him, for "He shall renew thy strength."

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

$8.7 Million Art Auction Is Far Short

LONDON (AP) — Titian's "Death of Actaeon" and 26 other Old Masters were sold at Christie's auction house today for a record $8,735,580.

Although the total was the highest in art history for a one-day auction, it fell considerably short of the $20 million which one expert had predicted.

The Titian went to a London dealer, Julius Weitzner, for $4,032,000. He refused to say who he bought it for, telling an interviewer, "I do not know where the picture is going."

Weitzner said he had been prepared to go higher.

The price was the second highest ever paid at auction for a painting. The record was set last November at Christie's when the Metropolitan Museum of Art paid $5,444,000 for a Velasquez.

The sale was preceded by the usual public outcry that something be done to keep the Titian in Britain. But the National Gallery hasn't the money to buy it, and the government made clear that it wasn't going to help out.

There had been predictions the painting might go as high as $4.8 million.

Dozens of security men were posted in the 205-year-old auction house to protect the art treasures. Police feared that a psychopath agitated by the wave of anger over the prospect of the Titian going to a foreigner, might try to damage the painting.

The painting depicts the legend of Actaeon disturbing the goddess Diana at her bath. For his temerity, she changed him into a stag, and her dogs tore him to pieces. The picture is being sold by the Earl of Harewood, first cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, who needs the money to pay family death duties.

Also up for auction were paintings by Caravaggio, Veronese, Bassano, Rubens, Van Dyck, Frans Hals, Canaletto, Bellotti O. Boucher, Fragonard and Greuze.

Methodist Bishop To Preach in Hope Church

It is exceptionally rare, indeed for a Methodist Bishop to appear in a local pulpit, unless an Annual Conference is in progress. Bishops in the Methodist Church are elected Episcopal Superintendents who represent the church's highest office and are generally the church's most experienced, most talented, highest educated and the most affluent cultured ministers. A made by John Davis, Paul Bishop's pastoral charge usually involves a territory covering several states.

Bishop Decatur Ward Nichols, presiding prelate over the 12th Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church (Oklahoma and Arkansas) will preach at Bethel A. M. E. Church here in Hope at the 10:50 a.m. Worship Services on Sunday, June 27. Bishop Nichols is a world figure and an Ecumenical officer in the World Council of Churches. He has preached four times behind the Iron Curtain in Russia. He is the Senior Bishop of the Church and is listed in Who's Who in America. He has preached on every continent of the globe and many countries of Europe, Africa, and the Americas. Bishop Nichols resides in New York City, but maintains Parish Headquarters in Little Rock and Oklahoma City.

The Pastor and members of Bethel A. M. E. Church extend a cordial welcome to the public to hear this great Churchman Sunday morning.

Russians Annoyed Over China Move to Build East Front of Nations

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
Something happened recently in Communist China which only a relatively short time ago would have been incredible. Because of what it may signify, the Russians seem extremely annoyed.

The Peking events suggest that the Red Chinese are building an East European front of nations which at one time or another have been subjected to Soviet pressure.

The incredible performance concerned the Yugoslavs. Only a year ago or so President Tito was being called every bad name in the Chinese Communist lexicon. Tito was the worst of all possible revisionists, a traitor to Marxism-Leninism.

Not so any more. A Yugoslav delegation for super-red carpet treatment in Peking this month. Flags were everywhere. Slogans emblazoned on walls upheld the independence of nations. Speeches recounted in terms of glory how in recent times "Yugoslav people have withstood foreign pressure."

There was only one foreign pressure and it was Soviet. But there was more to annoy the Russians. Before the Yugoslav visit, Peking was host to a Romanian delegation headed by the top Romanian Communist, Nicolae Ceausescu.

On that occasion the talk was about the rights of small nations, too. Premier Chou En-lai noted that "medium and small countries ... are uniting to oppose the hegemony of the superpowers and defend their national interests and state sovereignty." There are only two superpowers, and one of them, the United States, hasn't been bothering either Romania or Yugoslavia.

All month, too, visitors from little Communist Albania, the strident-voiced European ally of Red China in the cold war with Moscow, had been bustling all over the People's Republic getting VIP treatment.

A glance at the map shows that Romania, Yugoslavia and Albania together make up a unified and fairly sizable chunk of southeast Europe, stretching from the Black Sea and Soviet frontiers to the Adriatic and having borders with the Western world. About 45 million people live in the three nations.

To Moscow's way of thinking, all this can threaten to upset power balances and perhaps bring pressure on the Kremlin to relax its grip elsewhere in eastern Europe. It also could signify a Chinese intention to build a bridge across the Balkans to the West.

It may be just coincidence, but while the Yugoslav delegation was in Peking there was an announcement in Hungary that the Warsaw Pact forces were going to have new maneuvers. The Yugoslavs seemed

Arkansans Named to Rice Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Arkansans, three from Stuttgart, have been named to the 26-member National Rice Advisory Committee, Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said Thursday.

Named were L. C. Carter, Earl Daugherty and Ronald Bailey, all of Stuttgart; Robert H. Smith of Walnut Ridge, Finis A. O'Daniel of DeWitt; and Ephron Lewis of Earle.

The committee is to meet with Hardin next Tuesday to discuss current and future rice programs, domestic rice needs and export requirements.

nervous about this, acknowledging that they were under pressure from Moscow but denying that the pact maneuvers would be part of that pressure.

But Yugoslavia's official Communist press has been complaining bitterly lately about a rash of new attacks on President Tito in Moscow, which provided platforms for Yugoslav emigres who were former enemies of Tito.

Fight Raging Near Base Abandoned

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting raged today around abandoned Fire Base Fuller and U.S. B52 bombers struck twice in support of South Vietnamese infantrymen hunting enemy mortar crews in the hills below the demilitarized zone.

A military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, reported "large sporadic contacts" around Fuller but said he had no details.

"We have sent reinforcements to the area," he said. "The important thing now is to find and destroy the enemy mortar positions around Fuller. Then a decision will be made whether to reoccupy the base."

Informants in the field reported that the North Vietnamese who overran the base four miles south of the DMZ Wednesday night withdrew from Fuller and took along the American electronic equipment that had been left there.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel flew over the hilltop base in a helicopter today and confirmed that it was deserted.

The U.S. Command maintained that it did not know how many American advisers and electronic technicians had been at Fuller when it was overrun. But field reports indicated about eight Americans managed to escape to a rear headquarters Thursday.

The Command reported another B52 strike was flown south of Fire Base Sarge, which is six miles southwest of Fuller. Heavy fighting has also been reported there. Putzel said the South Vietnamese were still holding the base although U.S. Chinook helicopters pulled its artillery pieces out Thursday after Fuller fell, apparently as a precaution.

The fall of Fire Base Fuller and the precarious situation of Fire Base Sarge weakened the western defense flank along the DMZ and the Laotian border. It could presage a new enemy offensive.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, the commander in the five northern provinces, said in a recent interview that he expects heavier enemy pressure in July and August. But he predicted the fighting would be limited to the unpopulated western mountains, with no real enemy threat to the populous coastal lowlands, including Hue and Da Nang.

RULING WILL (from Page one)

Washington Post and other newspapers that have run articles based on the study of the Vietnam war, concede there are military secrets that should not be published. But they would reserve the right to make a judgment for themselves.

In the middle stand the many judges who have been dragged into the struggle. Undoubtedly, they all would rather be out of it. But they find themselves having to engage in the always difficult task of balancing two competing interests: security and the people's right to know.

Since this gymnastic act is tricky, the balance has been tipped differently in different courts so far. As a result, the Supreme Court is forced almost inescapably into making the final judgment.

Several major street improvements were suggested. The Arkansas Highway System has prepared plans to relocate the State Highway System through the city, and improve connections to Interstate 30. It is anticipated that the segment from the interchange at State Highway 29 North to Highway 67 will be constructed during the next five years. Highway 4 will then be connected to the north Highway 29 leg, and as the demands occur the system will be extended south from Highway 67 into existing Highway 4 and Highway 29 routes. The Highway Dept. has also indicated that it will reconstruct S. Main St. from a point beyond the city limits to the intersection with U.S. Highway 67.

Recommendations have also been made for improvements on Hazel St. from Greenwood to 9th Sts.; Hervey St. from Greenwood to S. Highway 29; 9th St., 16th St., Fulton-Spring Hill Road, Edgewood, Ave. "G", N. Elm St.

It is anticipated that several streets in the northeast part of Hope will be reconstructed as collectors during the planning period. These streets include Beech, Greenwood, and Walker. As urban renewal activities commence in this area Hickory, Greening and Bell will be reconstructed as collector streets. The report also states that it is important that a connection be made between Robinson Road and the Interstate connections at Highway 4 and 29. It is considered important that work be done on the Hervey St. underpass and be completed prior to 1976.

The regional library will need to be expanded between 1986 and 1990 to accommodate increasing demand.

It is anticipated that the Junior High School will be expanded between 1971 and 1975 to accommodate overcrowded enrollment conditions. Between 1990 and 1995 a second junior high school will be required to accommodate enrollment. It is suggested this facility be located in north central part of the city in close proximity to the connection between Highway 29 and Highway 4. The high school facility will also require expansion during the next five years to meet increased enrollment

Nixon Wants to Plug Generation Gap

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon, calling for a new attitude toward old age in America, said today a generation gap between older citizens and all others "has often been ignored or slighted."

In an address prepared for a joint convention of the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons, Nixon said there is need for "a new alliance in this country between Americans who are under 65 and those who are older."

The President, who flew here Thursday night after making a sentimental journey to Indiana and the home soil of his late mother, said:

"If we allow our society to become fragmented—so that younger Americans are cut off from older Americans—then each member of our society will also become fragmented—with young people cut off from their past and older people from their future."

On one specific point, Nixon complained that altogether too many nursing homes are described as "little more than warehouses for the unwanted, dumping grounds for the dying."

Nixon said: "I have heard of doctors who refuse to visit some nursing homes because they get too depressed. Too often it seems nursing homes serve mainly to keep older people out of sight and out of mind—so that no one will notice their degradation and despair."

The President said it was his goal to see federal, state and local governments working with the private sector "to transform the nursing homes—for those who need it—into an inspiring symbol of comfort and hope."

In the main, Nixon's remarks were the sort of thing his audience wanted to hear. He placed great emphasis on statistics, showing that the federal spending on aging has nearly doubled in five years, and that Social Security benefits already have been increased 25 per cent in two years, with still another hike in prospect.

The chief executive found a way, too, to appeal to older Americans to support his embattled revenue-sharing program—the centerpiece of his 1971 legislative program.

He declared that sharing federal revenues with the state and local governments "could help stem the ruinous rise in local property taxes," and thus help those over 65.

The need for two new elementary schools is also foreseen. One to replace Paisley School in the northwest part of the city, and another in the southeast part of the city.

Revenue for these projects may be gained in several ways. General obligation bonds could be used. A general obligation bond is one which is amortized by use of ad valorem taxes. Such a bond is always subject to approval of citizens at an election and generally requires an increase in property tax.

Municipal revenue bonds are not supported by tax revenue; therefore they must be self-liquidating or must be amortized from net earnings of a municipal service. Revenue bonds may be used to finance sanitary sewer and water system improvements, and some public buildings.

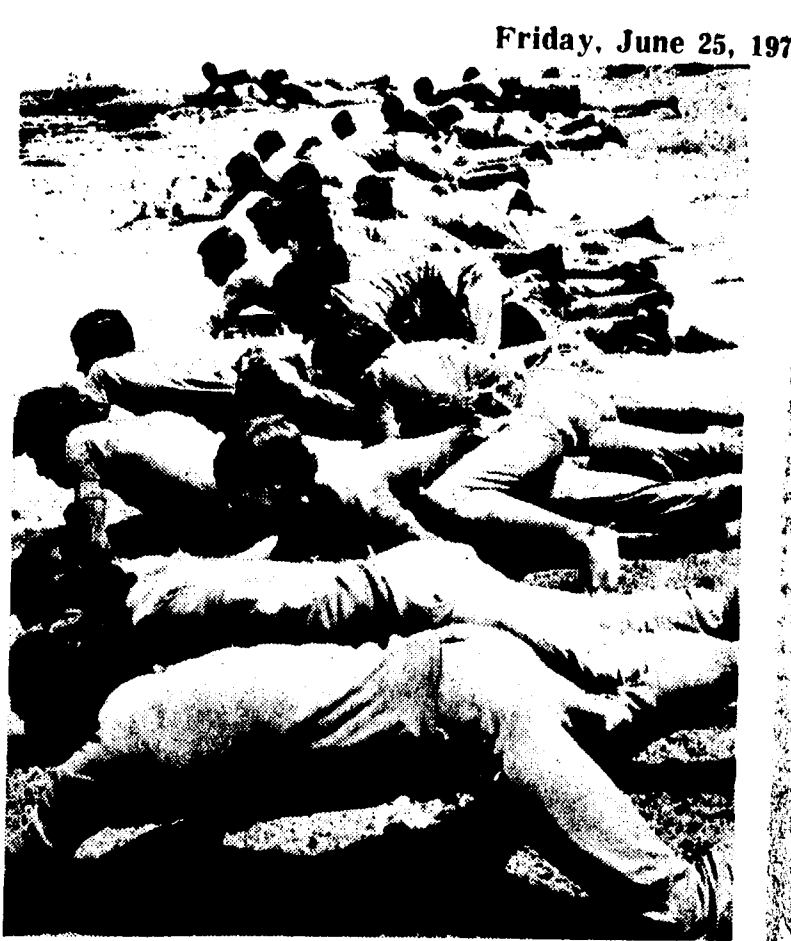

Improvements districts are authorized under legislative enactment to issue bonds to finance construction, acquisition, and improvements of streets, alley, etc.

Intergovernmental revenue from the state or federal government are available to cities for use in providing capital improvements. Factors determining the financial capacity of a local government for providing capital improvements include the outstanding debt, legislative debt limitations, assessed valuation, and annual surplus accrued by municipally owned utilities.

Hope is unique among Arkansas cities in that utility surpluses have been adequate to pay for capital improvements. While Hope is in better financial condition than most cities in the state, the demand for municipal services is high, and large scale improvement programs can be expected to require issuance of bonds in future years.

Bangla Desh

—the dream of an independent Bengal nation—is still alive in East Pakistan despite military suppression of the recent uprising against domination by West Pakistan. Young Bengalis hug the mud, right, training for guerrilla warfare at an unidentified point inside East Pakistan where the West Pakistan army, equipped with modern weapons from major powers, has an overwhelming military advantage. Below, refugees from the struggle in East Pakistan crowd a camp in India 75 miles from Calcutta. An estimated three million Bengalis have fled to India, raising serious food and health problems.

If Parliament Voted Like U.S. Congress Heath Would Resign

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If British lawmakers voted against government policy, as American senators rebuffed President Nixon Tuesday over Vietnam, then Prime Minister Edward Heath would have resigned.

The fact that Nixon did not dramatize the difference between life on Capitol Hill and in the Palace of Westminster.

Aides shrugged aside Nixon's defeat as a single hiccup in his fixed four-year power trail. In Britain's House of Commons, it would have denoted a loss of confidence in the Prime Minister, requiring either a new government or new national elections.

There were plenty of other contrasts on view inside and outside the semi-circular senatorial chamber, in the styles as well as in the working systems of American and British legislators.

Some of the senators, for instance, chewed gum even while they spoke. Others read their speeches with aides beside them holding stacks of reference material. Throughout the day the floor of the chamber resembled a hotel lobby with members of the two main parties criss-crossing, huddling in group consultations, addressing the president pro tempore regardless of the fact that one or another of their colleagues nominally was in full oratorical flight.

For all the House of Commons' studied informality, little of this would be tolerated in Westminster. There Mr. Speaker insists upon strict observance of the rules of order.

Leaders of the government and opposition lean back in their leather seats, it is true, with their feet up on the table before them. And backbenchers lounge nonchalantly along their benches, conversing softly, writing notes. But they cannot read newspapers. They must not step over one of the two red bands on the carpet keeping the rival sides two sword-lengths from each other.

They dare not, unless they are ministers making formal pronouncements, read their speeches. And they are barred from addressing their colleagues either by name or as "you." It must be "the honorable member for Blank."

In the House of Commons only elected members, and officers of the House, are allowed on the floor during working sessions. A lawmaker cannot pass between a speaker on his feet and the chair. No two members can address the chair at the but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

The Senate bill does limit the number of men who can be drafted to 130,000 the first year and 140,000 the second. The Defense Department has indicated considerably less than those numbers will be required, unless there is a national emergency.

Among other major Senate-added provisions: —Cut 100,000 men off the overall 2.5 million force level approved by the House.

—Retain the two-year period of alternative civilian service that must be served by conscientious objectors. The House voted for three years service.

—Require the military to train experts to treat an increasingly large number of men who become addicted to drugs while in service.

—Exempt from the draft persons in families that have lost a father, son or brother in combat.

—Grant new rights to persons appealing their draft status, such as the right to have an attorney present.

—Ask the President to appoint future members of local draft boards with an eye to the race, color and ethnic and religious characteristics of most of the men they process.

Train Hits Car, Man Killed

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Roylenn Stinson, 24 of Edmondson (Crittenden County) was killed Thursday in a car that hit a Cotton Belt Railroad freight at the Lehi crossing six miles west of here.

Trooper Coleman Stevens of the State Police said the car was driven by Sidney T. Stinson, 24, also of Edmondson when it struck the second locomotive of the train and was carried 73 feet along the track.

The Senate chamber when it is in session whereas they are banned within a prescribed radius of the London Parliament. Still pressure groups appear to operate more openly in London, except on such major issues as Vietnam.

But perhaps the greatest similarity of all in the American and British systems is that friendships can and do transcend the tidy frontiers of party, and that legislators elected by and from the people serve as a substitute for civil war.
